About the Contributors

JESUS P. ESTANISLAO chairs the Institute of Corporate Directors and the Institute for Solidarity in Asia, both in Manila. He has served in a wide range of private and public posts, including in the cabinet of President Corazon Aquino as secretary of finance (1990–1992) and as secretary of economic planning and director general of the National and Economic Development Authority (1989).

JAMES GANNON is executive director of the Japan Center for International Exchange (JCIE/USA) in New York.

CAROLINA G. HERNANDEZ is emeritus professor of political science at the University of the Philippines, Diliman, and founding president and chair of the board of directors of the Institute for Strategic and Development Studies. She has served in a wide range of governmental and nongovernmental posts, including as a presidential advisor in the cabinet of President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo.

FRANK JANNUZI is a professional staff member for the US Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. He was a Hitachi International Affairs Fellow with the Council on Foreign Relations and has also worked for the US State Department's Bureau of Intelligence and Research.

KARL KAISER is director of the Transatlantic Relations Program at the Weatherhead Center for International Affairs and adjunct professor of public policy at the John F. Kennedy School of Government, both at Harvard University. A recipient of the Atlantic Award of NATO, he was a director of the German Council on Foreign Relations (DGAP) for three decades and has served as an advisor to numerous leaders, including Chancellors Willy Brandt and Helmut Schmidt.

ADAM P. LIFF is a research associate at JCIE and a MEXT research scholar affiliated with the University of Tokyo.

QIN YAQING is vice president and professor of international affairs at China Foreign Affairs University. He served on the resource team for the UN High Level Panel for Challenges, Threats, and Change (2003) and as special assistant to the Chinese eminent person for the China-ASEAN Eminent Persons Group (2005).

RIZAL SUKMA is deputy executive director of the Centre for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS) in Jakarta. He also chairs the International Relations Division of the Central Executive Board of Muhammadiyah, Indonesia's second largest Islamic organization, and served as a member of the Indonesian Ministry of Defense's National Committee on Strategic Defense Review.

HITOSHI TANAKA is a senior fellow at JCIE. Prior to joining JCIE in 2005, he held a range of high-ranking posts in Japan's Ministry of Foreign Affairs during his 36-year career as a diplomat, most recently as deputy minister for foreign affairs.

JUSUF WANANDI is a senior fellow at CSIS, Jakarta, which he helped found, and vice chair of the CSIS Foundation. He has served in a wide range of governmental and nongovernmental posts, including as a representative in the People's Consultative Assembly for four terms, and he currently chairs the Indonesian National Committee for the Pacific Economic Cooperation Council and the Council for Security Cooperation in the Asia Pacific. He is also president of The Jakarta Post, Indonesia's leading English-language newspaper.

TADASHI YAMAMOTO founded JCIE in 1970 and serves as the president. He also serves as the director of the Pacific Asia regional group of the Trilateral Commission, as well as of the UK-Japan 21st Century Group, the German-Japan Forum, the Korea-Japan Forum, and the Friends of the Global Fund, Japan.

About APAP and JCIE

ASIA PACIFIC AGENDA PROJECT

The Asia Pacific Agenda Project (APAP) is a multinational consortium of policy research organizations and academic institutions dedicated to strengthening networks and enhancing joint research and dialogue among institutions and intellectual leaders in the Asia Pacific. It also aims to train young scholars as future leaders by involving them in international policy-related research. The Japan Center for International Exchange (JCIE) and the consortium's other member institutions sponsor joint policy research projects and hold workshops, seminars, and an annual forum to discuss their research findings. This publication is the product of an APAP joint policy study.

JAPAN CENTER FOR INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGE

JCIE serves as the secretariat for APAP. Founded in 1970, it is one of the few independent, nongovernmental organizations in the field of international affairs in Japan. A nonprofit and nonpartisan organization, it conducts programs of exchange, research, and dialogue that bring together key figures from diverse sectors of society in Japan and overseas.

JCIE's activities are carried out in collaboration with organizations around the world, and it operates many of its programs in cooperation with its American affiliate, JCIE/USA, which is based in New York. JCIE creates opportunities for informed policy discussions; it does not take policy positions. It receives no government subsidies; rather funding comes from private foundation grants, corporate contributions, individual donations, and contracts.
